

20 August 2012

Mr. Paolo Scaroni
CEO of Eni,

Claudio Descalzi, Gianni Di Giovanni, Erika Mandraffino, Roberto Albini, Antonio Cristodoro et al;

It has come to our attention Eni has purchased the rights to explore offshore hydrocarbon blocks L21, L23 and L24 from the Republic of Kenya. These hydrocarbon blocks are situated within Somali waters under international law.

The East African Energy Forum hereby orders the annulment of these agreement(s) with the Kenyan government. We understand Eni is interested in exploring these blocks displaying your interest in the region's hydrocarbon potential. However, the agreement between you and Kenya violates international, Somali and Kenyan law hence their requirement of obtaining a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) from Somalia. This MOU was rejected by The Federal Parliament of Somalia and by UN Security Council Resolution 1851.

The maritime border between Kenya and Somalia is long established and is declared in Kenyan, Somali and UN legislation as being perpendicular to the coast, not latitudinal and parallel to the equator as Kenya claims. Our legal counsels are currently preparing for legal action against the Republic of Kenya and are confident that Kenya's claim will be rejected at the International Tribunal on the Law of the Sea in Hamburg, Germany. Your company will be included in the court filings as complicit in the territorial infringement of Somali waters and any resulting court ordered compensation.

The East African Energy Forum's mandate to pursue legal action is sanctioned by its international partners and the Government of Somalia. Your continued illegal exploration in Somali waters will damage your relationship with Somalia, a country with tremendous hydrocarbon potential. In addition to legal action, Eni and its subsidiaries hereby shall be excluded from future commercial and non-commercial Somali contracts, should this warning be disregarded, not responded to, or unheeded.

The East African Energy Forum will not pursue legal action against your company as long as it is engaged in a dialogue with us for clarification, consultation and/or negotiation on the matters mentioned in this letter. If either of these is not in progress within fourteen days of the date of this letter, legal action will commence. Contact information is provided below.

Regards,

Abdillahi Mohamud
Managing Director
East African Energy Forum
abdillahi@eaenergyforum.org

Said Mohamed
Public Relations Director
East African Energy Forum
said@eaenergyforum.org